

In creating these menus, I've drawn inspiration from Dalí and the Surrealists to create dishes to delight. The first menu, 'The Persistence of Memory', is a meditation on how memories, repeated tasting, and time affect our perception of a flavour. It's named after Dali's famous painting of clocks – which was, in its turn, inspired by the flowing form of Camembert left in the sun.

The second menu, 'Metamorphosis', explores themes of change and evolution - my own, and that of the ingredients I use.

In both menus, I strive to use every part of the ingredients I choose, maximising their capabilities and minimising waste.

I believe that all food must give pleasure: it must be able to surprise, by opening windows onto memories through familiar scents and flavours. I love using 'forgotten' local ingredients to take diners on a journey, as I draw inspiration from the past and search for new future traditions. I hope you enjoy.
